

Embedding insecure (HTTP) content in a secure (HTTPS) page is dangerous and confusing to visitors. Depending on their browser and security settings, they'll see a blank box, warning icon, and/or pop-up alert. Common sources of embedded content are images, videos, forms, and maps.

This work by Dylan Barlett is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 International License.